

Katherine Rich is the CEO of the New Zealand Food and Grocery Council (FGC), the industry body representing food and grocery manufacturers. She represents FGC members on a range of boards and Government panels such as the National Advisory Council on the Employment of Women.

Mrs. Rich received her tertiary education at Otago University in New Zealand, obtaining a Bachelor of Commerce in Marketing in 1990 and Bachelor of Arts in Economics in 1993. After leaving university, she was a policy analyst for the Ministry of Agriculture and held other agri-business roles in marketing and general management. She was a Member of Parliament for the New Zealand National Party for three terms (1999-2008) responsible for education, welfare and economic development portfolios. She is a former Chairman of New Zealand's Food Industry Group and is currently on the Board of the children's charity, Barnardos and Fairtrade.