Report on ‘Success Factors in the Philippines PPP Program’

As noted at ABAC 4 last year, AASC commissioned a research paper on Successful PPP Programs in the Philippines. The report (included in papers) details the following success factors:

• A comprehensive program of improvements and reforms (there is no “silver bullet”)
• Get the policy framework right and continually improve it.
• A whole of government approach
• Properly resourced
• Government capacity to comprehensively monitor the PPP
• Close engagement with the private sector
• Comprehensive communications strategy for the project

Challenges remain – need for improvements in financing environment

Deepening linkages with Infrastructure related initiatives

The APIP Secretariat met with G20 Global Infrastructure Hub in February 2016. The G20 Hub provided an update on:

• the development of their knowledge sharing network – The GIH Guide to Infrastructure Resources - a single database on infrastructure projects and financing information- available to APEC and non-G20 economies
• A specific project database is also being constructed

• Robert Milliner will continue to link APEC/ABAC and G20 and minimise duplication
• APIP is supporting the G20 initiative with the provision of materials and resources
