

Brett O'Riley is the Managing Director of advisory company OCGL. His governance roles include Executive Chair of Manawaroa Education, an edtech and school developer which is owned by listed company BeingAI. He is also Chair of the EMA Chinese Business Centre, and a director of infrastructure advisor GSD Corporation.

Mr. O'Riley is also an advisor to several international companies including Tata Consultancy Services and Voluntas. He was previously CEO of the EMA, New Zealand's largest business association. He has been involved in many government boards and advisory groups over many years. He is involved in climate change activity in New Zealand

Mr. O'Riley returned to New Zealand in 2009 and has spent the last 15 years dedicated to the goal of growing the economy and businesses through innovation. This included roles as founding CEO of what is now NZTech, founding Deputy CE of the Ministry of Science + Innovation, and as CEO of Auckland's economic growth agency.

Prior to that, he worked internationally in the telecommunications and IT sectors for 20 years. He is also a director of World Bowls as Regional Director Oceania and is actively involved in local sports and community groups, including Rotary.

Mr. O'Riley is a graduate of Victoria University of Wellington, with post graduate qualifications from MIT and Singularity University.