

Oleg Deripaska is founder of RUSAL and Volnoe Delo Foundation – one of the largest Russian non-profits involved in charity, social projects and volunteering.

He is a champion of the use of new technologies and innovation. He relentlessly works to raise the corporate governance and environmental standards in his companies and in the Russian business community at large.

He is actively involved in social and philanthropy work. The companies and foundations he established focus on the development of Russia's regions and support environmental, scientific, educational, cultural, healthcare and sports initiatives.

Mr. Deripaska graduated with a degree in nuclear physics, with honors, from the Moscow State University in 1993. He received a Master's degree from the Plekhanov Academy of Economics in Moscow in 1996.
